INTRO

VERSE 1

You came in wearing yesterday,
A little tired, a little grey.
Then something shifted in your eyes,
Like morning breaking out of time.
No grand arrival,
No perfect sign.
You simply stood there,
Changing mine.

PRE-CHORUS

Maybe we were never meant
To keep the light for long.
Maybe that is why
It feels so strong.

CHORUS

We are living on borrowed sunshine,
Holding gold that is not ours.
Borrowed sunshine,
Falling softly through the dark.
Let it find us,
Let it stay.
We do not need to own the day.
We are living on borrowed sunshine,
And that is more than enough.

DROP

VERSE 2

The city carried on below,
But we were somewhere it could not go.
Your laughter moved across the room
And pulled the daylight into bloom.
No explanation,
No asking why.
Just something golden
Passing by.

PRE-CHORUS

Maybe every beautiful thing
Was only made to move.
Maybe all we ever get
Is what we choose.

CHORUS

We are living on borrowed sunshine,
Holding gold that is not ours.
Borrowed sunshine,
Falling softly through the dark.
Let it find us,
Let it stay.
We do not need to own the day.
We are living on borrowed sunshine,
And that is more than enough.

BREAKDOWN

I will not ask the light to stay.
I will not call it mine.
I will only stand beside you
While it still shines.

BUILD

While it still shines,
While it still shines,
Borrowed sunshine,
One more time.

FINAL CHORUS

We are living on borrowed sunshine,
Holding gold that is not ours.
Borrowed sunshine,
Falling softly through the dark.
Let it find us,
Let it stay.
We do not need to own the day.
We are living on borrowed sunshine,
And that is more than enough.
